

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THE "AUSTRALIAN MINING MANUAL" has been compiled at the request of a large number of Stockbrokers and Investors interested in the West Australian Market. The Publishers having found that the size and arrangement of "KINDELL'S AFRICAN MARKET MANUAL" was much appreciated, it was decided to issue this Manual in a similar form, and to include a few of the more active Australian Gold Mines, although not dealt-in in the West Australian Market.

In many cases considerable difficulty has been experienced, owing to the private issue of the prospectus and the refusal of officials to give particulars or answer questions, but every endeavour has been made to get as much and as accurate information as possible, while avoiding such as would increase the bulk of the book without being of real service; proofs have been sent to the office of every Company, with the questions detailed below, and most of them have been promptly returned with corrections where necessary, and many with full answers to the questions.

In consequence of the character of the goldfields in Western Australia, great attention in investing should be paid to the amount of working-capital provided; the small amount of capital to be set aside for this purpose, in many cases is still further reduced in consequence of directors proceeding to allotment on totally inadequate subscriptions. Several reconstructions and consequent losses to Shareholders seem inevitable. Public "crushing" gold, often astoundingly rich, but there that the elements of permanency are present.

The rich surface indications are not depth, and the tracing out of a well-reef from end to end of the property extreme difficulty, if not of absolute impossibility, while the claim of adjoining properties on the rich reef is either false, or speculative. To this class of mine that are well known to the British Public, their exact nature has only recently been understood.

But there is quite a different class of the Coolgardie Goldfield, namely, true of well-defined formation, often between micaceous slate with ironstone cap, running across country for many miles, and can be picked up from leasehold to leasehold with absolute certainty. These ore bodies of great size, show no sensational gold, precious metal is well disseminated throughout, and the assays of often poor looking reefs give quite surprising results. Moreover, with reefs have invariably, so far as present such as diorite, is reached. Their trend across country is clear and unmistakable, and the expert testimony is unanimous that with depth the lodes improve in definition and in indications both of richness and of permanency.

It is upon this second class of properties—namely, the true fissure lodes—that the future of the Coolgardie Goldfield depends. In the past there has been too keen a quest for treasure holes, and often the unassuming quartz outcrops, that will in the end give the best results, have been merely hurriedly examined and then ignored by the prospector in search of an immediate fortune. This fact is now fully understood and appreciated by the best men on the Coolgardie field or interested in its mines; and such men are eager that all the sensational, although not necessarily untrue, stories about hundred-ounce or thousand-ounce stone be brushed away, and the field be treated on its sober merits as a one-ounce to two-ounce goldfield. The great desiderata for the field are honest "flotation" and economic mining. Granted the first, the money subscribed by the public will go not into promoters' pockets, but into machinery, Granted the second, every modern appliance and process, such as cyanidation, will be put in operation. Granted both desiderata, it is impossible for anyone who has visited and traversed the Coolgardie Goldfield, and has used his eyes to doubt the great future of this vast auriferous area.

THE Goldfields Act, 1886, The Goldfields Act Amendment Act, 1888, The Goldfields Act Amendment Act, 1892, and the regulations made under the provisions of the Goldfields Act, 1886, specify that :

CLAIMS.—Ordinary alluvial claims for one miner, 50 feet by 50 feet; wet claims, 50 feet by 100 feet.

FINDING GOLD.—To be reported at the warden's office within seven clear days, if in apparently payable quantities.

LABOUR.—Every claim must be continuously worked (eight hours on ordinary days, and four hours on Saturdays) by not less than one miner for every three acres, within two clear working days after it has been marked off, or will be liable to forfeiture, unless absence be caused by work in connection with the claim, sickness, attendance at a Court of Justice, general holidays, or floods. Where machinery has been erected and is constantly at work, the warden may dispense with these conditions, as also under other contingencies, on application at his office.

LEASES.—May be granted of any land for mining, or for the purpose of residence or business, but no lease shall embrace an area exceeding twenty-five acres, or be granted upon any goldfield until two years after the date of the proclamation of such goldfield, or affect the miner's right. The term shall not exceed twenty-one years, and the rental shall be one pound per acre per annum, computed from the 1st of January preceding the application.

MARKINGS.—All protection areas must be marked at each corner with a post standing three feet above ground and four inches in diameter, such posts to be kept uncovered and set in L trenches three feet long and six inches deep along each boundary line. A notice shall be posted on some conspicuous part of the area with the names of the holders, the numbers and dates of their miners' rights, the date on which the area was marked, and the date of registration thereof.
